PRESENT:

Dated the 28th March, 1958

APPEARANCES:

Shri Kanti Mehta, Vice-President, Colliery Mazdoor Sangh, for the workmen.

Shri P. K. Mitter, Chief Personnel Officer, for the Employers.

Industry: Coal.

State: Bihar.

AWARD

The Government of India, in the Ministry of Labour, by its order No. LR.II/55-2(26)/57, dated 11th December 1957 made in exercise of the powers conferred by clause (d) of sub-section (1) of Section 10 of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 (XIV of 1947), was pleased to refer the dispute between the parties above named in respect of the matters specified in the schedule annexed thereto, to me for adjudication. The said schedule runs as follows:

- (i) Whether the services of Shri Azmuddin Ashraff, Register Keeper of Katras Choitodih Colliery, were wrongfully terminated?
- (ii) Whether he is entitled to reinstatement and/or any compensation or any other relief?

2. After the usual notices were issued on the parties, the Secretary of the Colliery Mazdoor Sangh, Dhanbad (hereinafter referred to as the Union) filed its written statement of claim on 15th February 1958 and the employers filed their written statement in reply on 3rd March, 1958. The dispute was heard at Dhanbad on 12th and 13th March when the company examined its witness and the parties filed certain statements and made their submissions.

3. I may state that on behalf of the workmen an objection was taken against the appearance of a legal practitioner on behalf of the employer company and I upheld the objection under Section 36(4) of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947.

4 The facts of the case briefly stated are that Shri Azimuddin Ashraff, the workman concerned in this dispute, was a permanent workman serving in the colliery as a Register clerk and he had put in about 26 years service by 29th April, 1958 when admittedly his services were terminated by the management's letter No SA-III of 26th April, 1957 (annexure 'A' to the written statement of the Union). The company in its said letter, stated that it had become necessary to terminate his services as he had been found, after examination by the Chief Medical Officer of the Company, to be physically unfit to carry out his duties and there was no prospect in the foreseeable future of his becoming fit to do so. The Chief Medical Officer in his report about Shri Azimuddin had stated as follows:

"Very old and infirm. No organic disease. Unfit for active duties due to infirmity on account of old age."

The notice stated that he would be paid one month's pay in lieu of notice in accordance with para 21 of the standing orders of the colliery.

5. It is admitted that there is no superannuation age fixed in the standing orders of the company or otherwise and further that Shri Azimuddin was 63 years old when his services were terminated.

6 The contention of the Union is that the termination of the services of Shri Azimuddin Ashraff had amounted to retrenchment as defined under Section 2(oo) of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 and that the said retrenchment was illegal being contrary to the provisions of Section 25F of the Act as Shri Azimuddin was senior to many other employees of his category who were still in service and was thus not surplus to management's requirements and that the retrenchment was illegal and void since the statutory and mandatory conditions precedent to retrenchment prescribed under Section 25F of the Act had not been fulfilled by the management, as no compensation for retrenchment was paid to Azimuddin at the time of his retrenchment. The union, therefore, claims that the management should be directed to reinstate him in service in his former post with continuity of service with full wages and bonus and all other allowances for the period of his unemployment or in the alternative the management be directed to pay to him his full wages from the date of his wrongful and illegal discharge till the date of the order of this Tribunal together with the full compensation for retrenchment under the law in respect of his services till the date of the said order.

7 The management in its written statement has raised certain preliminary objections with which I shall deal presently. On the merits, it has denied that Shri Azimuddin was wrongfully or unlawfully retrenched; that as Azimuddin was found by the Chief Medical Officer to be old and infirm and unfit for active duties due to infirmity on account of old age and as he was completely and permanently incapacitated for work, the management had no other alternative but to terminate his services; that under the circumstances the termination or the services of Azimuddin did not amount to retrenchment but was termination on account of continued ill-health under the exception provided by clause (c) of section 2(oo) of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947.

8. But before dealing with the merits of the case it is necessary to consider the preliminary objections, urged on behalf of the company. It is first contended that the order of reference was invalid as after the conciliation proceedings the Government of India had by its letter dated 10th September, 1957 (annexure I to the company's written statement) informed the management that, it did not consider the dispute with regard to any payment of retrenchment compensation to Shri Azimuddin as fit for reference to an industrial tribunal for adjudication for the reason that there was no question of injustice or unfairness or denial of rights involved in this case. It is argued by Shri P K Mitter, representing the management, that the Government having once informed the management that it did not consider the dispute fit for reference for adjudication, the subsequent reference of the dispute to adjudication under clause (d) of sub-section (1) of Section 10 of the Act was invalid. In support Shri Mitter has sought to rely upon the decision of the Division Bench of the Patna High Court in the case of Bata Shoe Co. Ltd Vs State of Bihar and others (1956-II-L.L.J. p. 358). The facts of the case were that the Government of Bihar had by two earlier notifications, dated 8th October, 1954 and 15th January, 1955 made in exercise of the powers under Section 10 of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 referred two disputes to the Chairman of the State Industrial Tribunal, Patna, Bihar. Thereafter, a third notification was made on 17th September 1955 making a fresh reference to the same industrial tribunal. The order of the third reference stated that it was made in supersession of the earlier orders dated 8th October, 1954 and 15th January, 1955. It is important to note that this third order of reference was practically the same as referred to in the previous two notifications, the only difference being that the Bata Mazdoor Union, Digha, was mentioned as one of the parties in the dispute in the notification dated 17th September, 1955. All these three orders of reference were made under Section 10 of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947. It is also important to note that after the first two references were made, the Tribunal had acted on the references and held certain proceedings therein. The third order of reference was challenged by the company, the Bata Shoe Co. Ltd. and the Division Bench of the Patna High Court held that there is no express provision either under Section 10 of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 or any other section of the Act empowering the appropriate government to withdraw a reference after it has been made to the industrial Tribunal and that the question as to whether there is any such implied power must be answered with reference to the context and subject matter of the reference. Upon an examination of all the relevant provisions of the Industrial Disputes Act, it was held that a statutory duty is imposed upon the Tribunal to hold its proceedings expeditiously and submit its award to the State Government as soon as the reference is made to it under Section 10. That the other sections 16, 17, 17A and 18 are all peremptory in character. It was held that the scheme and purpose of the Statute is that once a reference is made by the Government, the Tribunal must hold its proceedings and submit its award in an expeditious manner. It was therefore held as a matter of construction that the State Government has no implied power to cancel or withdraw a reference, which has already been made to the Industrial Tribunal under Section 10 of the Act.

8. It will thus be seen that the decision of the Patna High Court is that Government has no power to cancel or withdraw a reference once it had been made to the Industrial Tribunal under Section of the Act. But here we are not concerned with Section 10 of the Act but only with the provisions of Section 12(5) which states that if on consideration Government is satisfied that there is a case for reference to a Board, Court or Tribunal, it may make such a reference and if the State Government does not make such a reference, it shall record and communicate to the parties concerned its reasons thereof. That judgment was not considering the case where after considering the conciliation Officer's report, the Government had informed the parties that it did not consider the dispute fit for reference and it subsequently changed its mind and referred the dispute to adjudication. The reference in the judgment of the Patna High Court to Section 12(5) was only for the purposes of construing the provisions of Section 10 of the Industrial Disputes Act. In my opinion, there is nothing in the provisions of section 12(5) or in the other sections of the Act which prohibits the Government after it has intimated the parties that it did not consider the dispute fit for reference to change its mind and thereafter make an order of reference under section 10. It may be that upon a representation made to it by the representatives of the workmen the Government may reconsider its opinion and come to the conclusion that the dispute was fit to be referred to adjudication. In this case there was no previous order of reference under section 10, under which proceedings had already been held by the Tribunal and which was subsequently sought to be cancelled. Here Government had only expressed an opinion under Section 12(5) of the Act that it did not consider the dispute fit for reference and had communicated its opinion to the parties. There is nothing in the Act to prevent Government from revising its opinion on re-consideration of the matter. In this case no question of expeditious disposal of the dispute was involved as no reference had been made under Section 10 of the Act and there were no proceedings held by any Tribunal, before the date of the present order of reference. In my opinion, the Government has under the Act power to make a reference at any time, even after it had intimated to the parties under Section 12(5) that it did not consider the dispute fit for adjudication. I, therefore, reject the contention of the management and hold that the reference is validly made.

9. It is next urged that this is a reference in respect of an individual workman and therefore it does not amount to an industrial dispute as defined by section 2(k) of the Act. In support Shri Mitter has sought to rely upon the judgment of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of C.P. Transport Ltd. and R. G. Patwardwan (1957-I-L.L.J. p. 27). I do not think this decision in any way helps the management. In that case the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that the preponderance of judicial opinion is clearly in favour of the view that an industrial dispute between an employer and a single employee cannot per se be an 'industrial dispute' within the meaning of Section 2(k) of the Act but it might become one if it is taken up by the union or a number of workmen; that notwithstanding that the language of Section 2(k) is wide enough to cover a dispute between an employer and a single employee, the scheme of Industrial Disputes Act does not appear to contemplate that the machinery provided therein should be set in motion to settle the dispute which involves the rights of workmen as a class and a dispute touching the individual rights of a workman was not intended to be the object of an adjudication under the Act when the same had not been taken up by the union or a number of workmen.

10. Thus what the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held is that even an individual workman's dispute can become an industrial dispute as defined by section 2(k) of the Act, if the collective body of the workmen take up his cause. Here the order of reference itself states that the dispute is between the employers in relation to the Katras Choitodih colliery on the one hand and their workmen on the other, in respect of the matter whether the termination of the services of Azimuddin was wrongful or otherwise. The case has been taken up on behalf of the workmen of the colliery by the Colliery Mazdoor Sangh which is the union of the workmen in this colliery. The dispute is thus clearly a collective one and the workmen are interested in the same as it involves the determination of a question which may at any future date affect them also. They have, therefore, made the cause of Azimuddin their own and raised an industrial dispute. The dispute though concerning the rights of an individual workman, has thus become an industrial dispute as defined by Section 2(k) of the Act. In the result, the second contention of the management is also rejected.

11. It is next contended that in item 3 to Schedule II of the Act the word used is the plural term "workmen" and not the singular term "workman" and therefore the reference of a dispute under clause (d) of sub-section (1) of Section 10 of the Act can only be valid if it is with regard to plurality of workmen. Now item 3 of Schedule II is as follows:

"Discharge or dismissal of workmen including re-instatement or grant of relief to workmen wrongfully dismissed."

I am not impressed by this contention. In my opinion, the plural term 'workmen' used in item 3 to Schedule II of the Act includes the singular term 'workman' and it is competent for the Government to refer the case of the dismissal or discharge of even a single workman provided his case is taken by the union or the body of workmen of the concern, as it had undoubtedly been taken up in this case. Item 3 of Schedule II really indicates the nature of the dispute to be referred for adjudication and if a dispute of dismissal of a plurality of workmen can be referred to adjudication under it, there can be no bar to referring a dispute regarding an individual workman, provided it is an industrial dispute under Section 2(k) of the Act. As I have already held that this is an industrial dispute as defined under Section 2(k), it must be held that this dispute is such as is covered by item 3 of Schedule II. The third contention of the company is therefore also rejected.

12. Now, on the merits the question that falls for determination is whether the termination of the services of Shri Azimuddin amounted to retrenchment as defined under Section 2(oo) of the Act or otherwise. Under Section 2(oo) of the Act retrenchment means the termination by the employer of the service of a workman for any reason whatever, otherwise than as a punishment inflicted by way of disciplinary action, but does not include—

- (a) voluntary retirement of the workman; or
- (b) retirement of the workman on reaching the age of superannuation if the contract of employment between the employer and the workman concerned contains a stipulation in that behalf; or
- (c) termination of the service of a workman on the ground of continued ill-health.

13. It is admitted by the parties that this case is not covered by the exception provided by clause (a) and that clause (b) would also not apply as there is no superannuation age prescribed in the standing orders or otherwise. Both the parties have, therefore, confined their contest on the point whether clause (c) of Section 2(oo) is applicable to the facts of the case or not. If the case is held to be covered by clause (c) then it would not amount to retrenchment and if it is held that it is not covered by clause (c), it would amount to retrenchment under section 2(oo) of the Act.

14. The union has argued that the termination of the services of Shri Azimuddin was not due to continued ill-health as it is not established that Azimuddin was suffering from continued ill-health. It is stated by the union in para. 7 of its written statement, and this is not denied by the company, that Shri Azimuddin had not taken any sick leave since his last illness in March 1954, when due to an injury which he received, he had been laid off from work till August 1956 when he resumed work. That since August 1956, he had not again fallen sick and was working and attending to his duties in a normal manner till he was discharged from service on 29th April, 1957. The report of the Chief Medical Officer also states that he was not suffering from any organic disease. Shri Kanti Mehta has argued that in order to come under the exception provided by clause (c) it must be proved by the management that the termination of the service of the workman was on the ground of continued ill-health. He argued that that case had not been made out by the management and the medical opinion that he is unfit for active duty due to infirmity on account of old age, would not be covered by the expression "on the ground of continued ill-health" used in clause (c) of Section 2(oo).

15. The management at the hearing, examined its Chief Medical Officer who in cross-examination stated that unfitness is co-related to the duties to be performed and that by infirmity on account of old age, he meant general weakness due to senile de-generation. It was, therefore, sought to be argued that the termination of the services because of incapacity for work, amounted to termination on account of continued ill-health.

16. Reliance was sought to be placed by Shri Mitter in support of his contention on a decision of late Shri S. H. Naik, Member, Industrial Court, Bombay, in the case of Baroda Spinning & Weaving Mills Co. Ltd. and Mayabhai Chandabhai, (Vol. II, F.J.R. parts 5 and 6 at page 129). In that case what had happened was that the workman in question had attained the age of superannuation prescribed by the standing orders and was suffering from incipient cataract in both eyes at the time of his discharge, which had continued for some time before his discharge and was likely to persist for sometime in future with the result that according to the medical report he was completely and permanently incapacitated for work. The learned Tribunal, therefore, held that when a workman who attains the age of superannuation is completely incapacitated for work on account of infirmity or physical disability his retirement or discharge would amount to retrenchment on account of continued ill-health within the meaning of Section 2(oo) and would not necessitate payment of retrenchment compensation to him. The facts of that case can easily be distinguished from the facts of the instant case. In the medical report it is clearly stated that Shri Azimuddin was not suffering from any organic disease. The only ground stated for his being unfit for active duties is "infirmity on account of old age." The statement in the written statement of the company that Azimuddin was completely and permanently incapacitated for work is not supported by what is stated in the medical report of the Chief Medical Officer, and these words have evidently been used in the written statement to bring this case in line with the decision in the Baroda Spinning & Weaving Mills Co. Ltd.'s case referred to above. In this case the workman was not suffering from any organic disease and it was not established that he was suffering from continued ill-health, as it is not denied that prior to his discharge from service on 29th April 1954, he was regularly attending to his duties. He was only suffering from old age and it cannot be said that he was completely and permanently incapacitated for work. I am of opinion that the term "continued ill-health" in clause (c) of Section 2(oo) must be strictly construed because that is an exception to the provisions of Section 2(oo), and would otherwise deprive the workmen of the benefits of retrenchment compensation. The evidence on record, in my opinion, does not establish that Shri Azimuddin was suffering from "continued ill-health."

17. No doubt Shri Azimuddin is old and it is not denied that he is 63 years of age but the condition prescribed by clause (c) of continued ill-health does not apply to him. I would, therefore, hold that the case is one of retrenchment under Section 2(oo) of the Act, and therefore the termination of his services without following the conditions precedent to retrenchment as prescribed by Section 25(F) of the Act, was illegal. But I am at the same time not satisfied that I would be justified in ordering his reinstatement in service. Instead of reinstatement there is also the alternative claim of payment to him of his full wages from the date of his discharge till the date of the order of this Tribunal, with full compensation for retrenchment as under the law in respect of his past services calculated till the date of the said order.

18. Considering all the circumstances of the case, I think that this is a fit case where the company should be directed to pay the workman Shri Azimuddin retrenchment compensation as prescribed by Section 25(F) of the Act. This workman has put in as many as about 26 years of service and I think the company could with good grace have treated this as a case of retrenchment and paid him retrenchment compensation for his past services. I would, therefore, direct that the company shall pay him retrenchment compensation as provided by Section 25(F) of the Act for his past services till the date of his retrenchment on 29th April, 1957. I also feel that as the retrenchment was illegal and as I am not directing his reinstatement, the workman should also be compensated in some measure for the period from the date of his termination of service i.e. 29th April 1957 till the date of this order. I, therefore, direct the company also to pay him half his wages (basic pay and dearness allowance but not bonus) as compensation for the period from 29th April, 1957, till the date of this Award as additional compensation.

I also feel that this is a fit case for awarding costs and I award Rs. 100 as costs in favour of the Union.
